THE PURPOSE OF STAMP HOBBY IS TO BE AN INDEPENDENT THINKER,

NOT A MINDLESS FOLLOWER

Editorial...

It's time for the magic of the monsoon; a season with nature dazzles droplets, completely showering, a mood, and an emotion.....its Rainy season!

Each issue is a milestone showcasing our commitment to deliver captivating content on philately. Our cover stories take you through many philatelic facets of Katra and Jammu cities, told by the collection of the local stamp collector. The Phila-travel story from Ireland, discover unique memorable places, towns, and landscapes are captivating treasure trove of enchanting postal history. The regular mesmeric column Philatoon, association's updates, Odisha Philately, new stamps and Miniature sheets released by DoP, etc. provide thoughtful narration for our esteemed reader.

The excitement of the whole world is busy with the season of the International multi-sport event summer Olympic Games in Paris, France. Olympic philately is a pastime hobby, collecting and studying the images or subjects on the postal products that are related to the Olympic Games or the Olympic movement. The postage stamps released starting from the first modern Olympic Games held in Athens; dating back to 1896 are the rarest. The Olympic philatelic programs have raised awareness of the games throughout the world, heightened interest in the history of the Olympic movement, and generated revenue for the Olympic teams. Statistics reveal more than 50 million Olympic multiple stamps series have been issued by various countries from the beginning. The revenue from philately and postal services is collected through a surcharge on stamps or through a gross sum on the sale of stamps. Hobby collectors get fun and pleasure with the exchange of letters, postal used covers, materials, and different Olympic sports depicting philatelic items in their collection. There was an International exhibition by the International Association of Olympic Collectors (IAOC) selecting 24 exhibits commemorating "24 OLYMPIC LEGACIES" organized from 26 July– 11 August 2024 at the Parc de la Villette in Paris to showcase exhibits related to Philately, Numismatics, Pins and Memorabilia.

Let us fill our hearts joyful of freedom as India celebrates its 78th Independence Day, this month. Finally, the love for our Sisters with Raksha Bandhan DoP plastic covers prepared with the creation of thoughtful gifts and ideas. We invite you to explore the edition and discover the diverse wonders within these pages. Happy reading and thanks for your unwavering support and enthusiasm.

Odisha Carried Covers Part I

Ambika Shankar Samantray, Pune

Carried covers are designed covers used by a special carriage from one destination to another with the help of the Postal Department bearing a commemorative or slogan date cancellation and delivery postmark before being distributed to the target recipient. Every carried cover released by DoP or proponent is based on a background of past commemorative happenings that have substantial documentary evidence. Another feature of the carried cover is the signature of the postal carriers on the cover. The carried cover also has the Sender's address at the front or back of the cover and the receiver's address at the front. There is mention of the type of Carrier such as horse, Bicycle, or Harkara on the front side for the collector.

In Odisha Circle, the first carried cover was released on the occasion of the National philatelic exhibition, Naturepex, 2016 placing a horse run with mailbag carried cover. The horse-carried covers were traveled from KIIT International School, Bhubaneswar to GPO, Bhubaneswar on 1st October 2016.

The horse shown on the cover was the original horse with a mail cart and duff brown mailbag from Jeypore, Koraput district in Odisha. As per Phila researcher Mr Anil Dhir, eminent historian the tonga-drawn mail dispatch system started in 1928 and continued till 2008 in the city, was the only horse-drawn mail cart of the World after independence.

Bicycle is the most custom transport system with a bag full of letters and postal distribution materials used by postal employees. Whether it is the city or a village, the postman has a distinct image in carrying the bag on his shoulder for delivering the postal materials. The second carried cover was issued on August Kranti Diwas 9th August 2017 to commemorate a place called Bapujee Nagar which is named after the Father of the Nation to GPO, Bhubaneswar.

Gandhiji visited Cuttack, Odisha, for the second time on 19th August 1925. During pre-independence time Dak runners were engaged for delivery of letters. The third carried cover with Dak Runner was planned to commemorate the historic visit after 92 years on 19th August 2017 from Gandhi Bhawan SPO to Swaraj Ashram SO. was the center of all nationalist activities and pilgrimage for all Gandhites.

Every year 30th January is celebrated as Martyr's Day also known as Shaheed Diwas from 1948 after the brutal assassination of Mahatma Gandhi.

The Motor Cycle was invented in 1885 but is used for mail transport by postmen in the Modern day. On the special occasion day, the carried cover was taken from Swaraj Ashram SO to Gandhi Bhawan SPO.

Palanquin, derived from the Sanskrit word "palyaṅka", referred to covered litter or sedan chair used for transportation, typically carried by servants or slaves from the 17th century. The above-carried cover had the special significance of the Chariot procession car festival Rathayatra which illustrated the Rasagolla offering to the four deities, a ritual for God of the Universe on the day of Nilaadri Bije from the 11th century at Puri. The cover was released to strengthen the claim of Rasagolla-the sweet of Odisha during the court battle on 1st March 2018 counter to the claim of West Bengal. A palanquin walk with the carrier and the sweet bowl was arranged from Singhdwar sub post office to Puri Head office to celebrate the event.

Wooden frame and wheel bullock cart was the ancient day's lifeline, a major means of carriage system used in remote areas where there was no road connection. On 7th March 2018, the Keonjhar Postal Division in Odisha endorsed a bullock cart carrying a special cover on Mahatma Gandhi although there is no connection between Gandhi, the day of celebration, and the place of celebration. The carried cover in a decorated bullock cart driven by an ox traveled from the SSPO office, Keonjhar to Postmaster Atopur NDSO.

Gandhiji visited Odisha Eight times from 1921-1946. During the Seventh visit to Odisha, the 4th Annual conference (March 25-31, 1938) of Gandhi Seva Sangh was held at Beraboi in the Delang area of Puri district with renowned freedom fighters like Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel and Rajendra Prasad. The 80th anniversary of the occasion was again remembered by issue of a carried cover in a motor cycle on 31st March travelling from Berboi Sub Post Office to Delanga Sub Post Office.

On the occasion of EIPLEX, 2018 a cycle run carried cover was organised on 11th May from Bapujee Nagar Sub Post office to IRC village Post office in Bhubaneswar.

The cover high lights the journey photos of Mahatma from child hood to adult.

A specially prepared Charriot was used duringstate level exhibition ODIPEX-2018 from SSPO office, Keonjhar to the venue Ravindra seva Niketan for celebrating 150th Birth Anniversary year of Father of the Nation.

The book on “Special Greetings Cards” is a nice compilation by Mr Amrendra Anand from Dhanbad. Here, the author's challenge was in three size imprint Greetings cards by India Post during 2000 to 2004 for the general audience. Well, everybody knows the stories in bits and pieces about the different categories of greetings cards with imprint stamps but Mr Anand delivered a flawless and triumphant performance. The multi-colour digital printed book was crafted sketches into a vigorous and gripping mention about theme, designer name and face value of card, a task so laborious. There are reprint of few greetings, the author tried to mention which deserves the credit. This book is a must for the Stationery collectors with different thematic areas. The author reiterates to include the information, but failed in setting the pages in book format such as Index after copyright, acknowledgement etc. The preface and addition of an introduction page will be more attention for reader. Over all the book offer many lessons to young and aspiring stamp collectors.

SAVOURING INDULGENT BLISS-“THE BLACK STUFF” EMERALD COUNTRY-EIRE

Culturally curious, environmentalist, social activist, and discerning traveller Mr. Manoranjan Mohanty, Bhubaneswar life member of EIPA had visited Ireland. He explored Philately on the small island with a memorable punch, watching awesome postal history. He had the opportunity to stay from 3rd June to 8th July in Dublin-the capital city, spend Euro-the money, take note of the language Irish Gaelic, discover AnPost-the National Post Service with eircode- the postcode system with a unique 7-character consisting of letters and numbers and The tricolour National flag- green, white and orange, Animal- Mountain hares, Flower- Shamrock, Music Irish Harp were seen at several places. The island of Ireland is divided into four provinces and 32 counties in total. Of these, 26 counties are part of the Republic of Ireland, while the remaining six counties belong to Northern Ireland, which is under the jurisdiction of the United Kingdom.

The Editor Dr Bibhudatta Mishra, had the opportunity to speak to Mr. Mohanty and interact regarding his philatelic journey round the country.

Congratulations from the team “The Fila Capsule” for your recent visit to Ireland including the philatelic bureau and museum in the Capital city, Dublin. Please share

What was your travel route from India to Ireland?

We started our journey from Bengaluru to Dublin in Etihad Airlines via Abu Dhabi and reached Ireland. The country time is 4 hours 30 minutes back from India. The season was summer with a temperature range of 9-22 degrees.

How does your normal day begin for you and how do you relate the country landscape, and transport with Postage stamp?

Each morning in Ireland, I step out into the fresh air, greeted by misty hills and lush green landscapes that remind me of the intricate details on postage stamp. Driving through the countryside, with its winding roads, ancient ruins, and grazing sheep, feels like traveling through a living set of postcard—each scene worthy of a stamp's design. As a philatelist, I see the beauty and history of Ireland as if captured in miniature on a stamp. The old post offices and the natural beauty connect my love for nature and stamps, making every day here a journey through a story I deeply cherish.

What is your favourite and most fascinating philately destination in Ireland and why?

I have stayed in Dublin, the millennium city, Dublin celebrated its 1,000 birthdays in 1988. I like the county most as it allows us to discover the day and night of our stay.

The General Post Office at Dublin in O'Connell Street is the Headquarters founded in 1814 and opened in 1818. A postage stamp commemorating 200 years of imposing Georgian building of great historical significance and architectural distinction is said to be the oldest functioning postal headquarters in the world released in 2018. The first stamp of Ireland was released in 1922 with single color definitive series overhead stamps and in 1930 the first commemorative stamps of Shannon Dam. Dublin is also known as the UNESCO City of Literature and well recognized as the cultural capital of Europe. The Liffey is a 125 km river flowing through Dublin city using energy resources for hydroelectric power (at Leixlip, Golden Falls, and Poulaphouca). Rich in fish, Dublin residents live at nature's pace, and many old famous bridges link both shores, including the famous Samuel Beckett, Ha'Penny(1816), James Joyce Bridge (2003), etc.

The city is well connected with a tram network called “LUAS” which also carries mailboxes. I have seen post-boxes found in public places like Bus stops, market complexes, etc. Interestingly, I have learnt that the postal facilities are provided to each citizen of Ireland by the Postal Department even if a single family is located in isolated areas.

Phoenix Park is the largest urban park and contains several stately homes, including the official residency of the President of Ireland. Another attraction National War Memorial Gardens in Island Bridge is a famous war memorial dedicated to the 49,400 Irish soldiers who died in the First World War (1914-1918). Each soldier's name is contained in the illustrated Harry Clarke manuscripts the architectural interest granite book rooms within the gardens in one part. In the other part, there is a depiction of the Indian Independence struggle and the visit of Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose to Ireland. Another Indian literary personality statue available in Ireland is Guru Ravindranath Tagore, a pride for us Indians.

The famous Trinity College was created by royal charter in 1592 and completed 400 years in 1992 with the release of the stamp.

During my visit to the city, I found lots of impressive old but well-preserved mix of ruins and structures of Castel and Cathedral. Although the entry for these monuments is a little bit expensive I have relished a few famous castles like Dublin, Malahide, Swords, Ardgillan, Dalkey, Howth, Clontarf, Drimnagh, etc. which were built during the 12-18th Century.

Please tell us something about the Philatelic Bureau and Museum in Dublin?

The bureau located in the An Post Museum in one corner of Dublin GPO displayed fascinating insight into the role played by the Post Office and pillar post boxes in the development open to the public on 29th March 2016. Known as the “inverted swan”, one of the rare stamps available for visitors at the National Museum's collection in Dublin.

How many counties did you visit during your stay and what favourable destination was cherished in your memory for a long time?

Out of 26 counties in Ireland, I have toured 18. The details of important visiting places' are described below.

Munster province- Clare, Limerick, Tipperary, Waterford

Leinster province- Carlow, Dublin, Kildare, Kilkenny, Laois, Louth, Meath, Offaly, Westmeath, Wexford and Wicklow

Connaught province- Galway, Roscommon, Sligo

All counties have their lush green scenery, stunning coastline, breathtaking landscape, and home to many fine examples of medieval, Norman, Georgian, and Neolithic architecture reflected in protected monuments of castles and cathedrals. In 1987, Irish Post released four heritage transport tram systems that prevailed in the past recognizing County Cork Electric, Howth GMR, Dublin Balcony, luxury, and Galway horse tram.

Each county has its own importance and historical treasures. Let me go to each country I have touched to admire the remarkable structure and highlight the Phila-tourist spot for our esteemed reader.

Clare is renowned for traditional Irish music, Vandeleur walled garden, the Cliffs of Moher, Loop Head Lighthouse, Ail wee Cave, Caherconnell medieval stone fort Europe's longest free-hanging stalactite Doolin Cave, etc. The Craggaunowen life and artefacts of Celtic ancestors over 1,000 years ago were a real tribute and gave me a living experience.

Limerick is acknowledged for its unique spirit, the friendliness of the people, the vibrancy of the riverside city, and the sporting passion. The visitors take a tour to discover King John Castle, The Hunt Museum, Foynes flying boat and maritime museum, the Irish World Academy of Music and Dance, Limerick milk market, etc.

Tipperary is famous for the horse breeding industry, the race horses training of Irish people and riding horses. Its pasture land, fortresses and the exhilarating trip to the rock of Cashel, Cahir Castle, the Elizabethan splendor of Ormond Castle Glen of Aherlow, Bru Boru Cultural Centre, Ormond Castle, Mitchel town caves, etc.

Waterford- Ireland's oldest city founded by the Vikings in 914 AD, the County offers Viking heritage, mesmerizing Copper Coast, exquisite Comeragh Mountains, a Medieval museum, Reginald's Tower, etc.

Carlow "The Dolmen County" have unspoiled and unforgettable landscape, picturesque villages, meandering rivers, rolling hills, rich spiritual and ecclesiastical heritage, monastic site at St. Mullins, the Romanesque at Killeslin, the medieval Cathedral of Old Leighlin, the eighteenth-century College and nineteenth-century Catholic Cathedral the exquisite, Adelaide Memorial Church at Myshall and Brownhill Dolmen large megalithic portal tomb. We had the opportunity to visit the ESB hydroelectric power plant and see how it operates, supplying electricity to Limerick, Cork, Dublin, and other small towns in Ireland.

Dublin County-

Already discussed in the above

Kildare County is regarded as the home of horse racing, full of heritage sites, wonderful arts, and cultural events, festivals such as Two Mile House, Harristown Castle, Harristown Station House, The monastery at Moone, St Brigid's Well, The Curragh Plains, Knockaulin, Pollardstown Fen etc.

Kilkenny County has been referred to as Marble City and the people called Cats situated on both sides of River Nore. The visit places are 13th-century St. Canice's Cathedral, Dunmore Cave, Gairdín a Ghorta (Famine Garden), Jerpoint Abbey, Kilkenny Castle, Medieval Mile Museum etc.

Laois, one of the most prominent sights in the County is well known as the Rock of Dunamase has seen Vikings, Normans, and native tribes. The attractions are Heywood Gardens, Timahoe Round Tower, Ballykilcaven Brewery, Emo Court house etc.

The wee County Louth has visited places like Cooley Peninsula, Slieve Foy, Stone Circle, Carlingford Castle, Monasterboice, Mellifont Abbey,

The Royal County Meath is a famous destination for tourists due to Trim Castle, Hill of Tara, Stone of Destiny, Mellifont Abbey, Newgrange- ancient burial chambers, Offaly is largely comprised of flat landscapes and is known for bog and peat lands. Ancient Monastic settlements, the Historic Science Centre, Birr, Lough Boora Parklands, Tullamore dew, etc. are the fascination to visit this county.

The lake county Westmeath is famous for the Derryglad Folk Museum, Old Kilbeggan Distillery, Athlone Castle etc.

In Wexford, we have the opportunity to witness the 12th-century castles, towns founded by saints and Vikings, Blue Flag beach, 800-year-old Hook Lighthouse, etc. We also had the unique experience of picking strawberries, savoring their taste, and seeing firsthand how they are grown, taken care of, and nurtured, creating a truly one-of-a-kind feeling.

The Garden of Ireland, county Wicklow is a tourist attraction like National Park, Djouce, Lugnaquilla, Glendalough, Powerscourt Waterfall, Great Sugarloaf, etc.

Any Memorable incidents you wish to Share related to Stamp?

One of the most memorable experiences during my visit to Ireland was when I stopped by the An Post office in Boyle, County Roscommon. This small, charming building, nestled next to the historic King's Castle, was a treasure trove for a philatelist like me. As I walked in, I was immediately struck by the warm, welcoming atmosphere. The attendants were enthusiastic and knowledgeable, eager to share stories behind the stamps they offered.

The post boxes itself felt like stepping back in time, with its historic setting adding to the experience. The walls were lined with stamps depicting everything from Irish wildlife to historical figures, each one telling a story of its own. It was more than just a place to send letters; it was a window into Ireland's rich heritage.

What made this visit even more special was the connection between the post office and its surroundings. The King's Castle towering nearby added a sense of history and grandeur to the whole experience. In Ireland, many post offices are housed in historic buildings, and this adds a unique charm to every visit. It's like collecting not just stamps, but pieces of history as well.

Notorious Defensive Bird

Fieldfare (Turdus pilaris)

Unveiling their elicit intense habits like mobbing behavior (where smaller birds swoop and dash at flying or perched larger birds) and habit of defecating on intruders are the special approach make this bird notorious defensive birds. The fieldfare pushing other birds away from their territories or a food source, protect themselves and their young and group of birds harassing a perched predator are activities of imitates mobbing.

Fieldfare (Turdus pilaris) a small but beautiful bird belongs to thrush family (Turdidae) and is native to Europe and Asia. It is strongly migratory, moves during winter.

Physical Characteristics

Size: The Fieldfare is about 25 cm (10 inches) in length, with a wingspan of approximately 39-42 cm (15-17 inches).

Plumage: It has a distinctive appearance with a grey head, nape, and rump, contrasting with a chestnut-brown back and wings. Its underparts are white with dark spots, and it has a yellowish beak.

- Legs: The legs are dark brown.

• Tail: The tail is dark with a white rump patch that is often visible in flight.

Habitat

• Breeding Habitat: Fieldfares breed in open woodland, scrub, and sometimes in gardens or parks, particularly in northern and eastern Europe. They prefer areas with scattered trees and plenty of open ground for foraging.

- Winter Habitat: During winter, they migrate to southern and western Europe, as well as North Africa and the Middle East. They are often found in fields, hedgerows, and orchards during this time.

Behavior

- Diet: Fieldfares are omnivorous. Their diet consists mainly of insects, earthworms, and berries. In winter, they often feed on fallen apples and other fruits.

- Social Structure: They are gregarious birds, often seen in large flocks, especially during migration and in their wintering grounds.
- Breeding: The breeding season starts in late April. They build cup-shaped nests in trees or large shrubs. The female lays 4-6 eggs, which are incubated for about two weeks. Both parents feed the chicks until they fledge around two weeks later.

Notorious Defense Mechanism

Fieldfares are well-known for their unique and rather messy defense strategy against predators, particularly avian ones like crows, magpies, and even larger raptors

- Mobbing Behavior: When a predator approaches, Fieldfares often engage in mobbing behavior, where multiple birds will harass and dive-bomb the predator to drive it away.
- Dirty Defense: One of their most notorious defense mechanisms is their habit of defecating on intruders. When threatened, Fieldfares will release a barrage of feces aimed at the predator. This behavior can be highly effective, as the sticky, smelly droppings can deter and disorient the predator, causing it to abandon its attack. This strategy is particularly effective against avian predators, whose feathers can be soiled and weighed down by the droppings, making flight difficult and uncomfortable.

Conservation Status

The population trend appears to be stable, extremely large are currently listed as a species of Least Concern by the IUCN. They have a wide range and are common throughout their habitats. However, like many birds, they can be affected by habitat loss and changes in agricultural practices.

Interesting Facts

- Migration: Fieldfares are strong fliers and are known for their long migratory journeys. They travel in large flocks and can cover significant distances between their breeding and wintering grounds.
- Vocalizations: They have a variety of calls, including a distinctive "chack-chack" sound, which is often, heard when they are alarmed or communicating within a flock.

The Fieldfare's combination of striking appearance, social behavior, and unique defense strategies make it a fascinating subject of study for ornithologists and bird enthusiasts alike.

Errors on Postage Stamps Afghanistan

Nisarg Sutaria, Ahmedabad

The Printing Error

Incorrect Inscription: They were inscribed with "33rd year of independence" instead of the correct "46th year of independence."

Attempted Cover-Up:

The error was then covered by a gold bar over the inscription section.

Intriguing Error Correction

The gold bar cover-up adds another layer of intrigue to the error. It indicates that the mistake was caught after some stamps were printed, and they attempted to rectify it by hiding the inscription rather than reprinting the stamps.

Potential Collector's Value

This combination of errors could make the stamps valuable to collectors who specialize in errors or Afghan stamps. The value depends on a few factors:

Number of Uncorrected Stamps

The fewer stamps that escaped the gold bar treatment (i.e., have a clear inscription error), the higher the value.

Number of Gold bar Stamps

The number of stamps with the gold bar covering the error might also be of interest to collectors, though likely not as valuable as the uncorrected ones.

Catalogue Listing

If a major stamp catalog like Scott or Michel lists this error, it validates its authenticity and provides a baseline value for both the uncorrected and gold bar versions.

Market Interest

The unique combination of inscription error and gold bar cover-up could attract a premium from collectors who appreciate the oddity and the glimpse into Afghan postal history.

A stamp issued by Afghanistan on 14 June 1968 is an interesting case of a misspelling on Afghan stamps issued to Honor Queen Humaira and Mother's Day! The error with "MÉRES" instead of "MÈRES" for "Mothers" could indeed make these stamps interesting to collectors who specialize in errors or Afghan stamps.

Here's a breakdown of why this misspelling might make the stamps valuable:

Printing mistakes like misspelling words are uncommon and can introduce rarity to a stamp collection. The French inscription "MÈRES" with the acute accent over the E is the correct spelling, and "MÉRES" without the accent is a clear error.

Stamps issued by Afghanistan on 10 November 1970 present an interesting case where the commemorative aspect doesn't quite align with the depicted stamps.

The Commemorative Error

The stamps were issued in 1971 to celebrate the 100th anniversary of Afghan postage stamps. However, the stamps themselves depict designs from 1871, the actual first year of Afghan stamps. This creates a discrepancy.

There could be a few reasons for this deceptive error:

Limited Resources: Perhaps access to original designs from 1871 was easier than creating new ones for the commemoration.

Historical Accuracy: It's also possible the intention was to depict the first Afghan stamps for historical accuracy, even though it doesn't strictly celebrate design evolution.

Printing Error: In a less likely scenario, it could be a printing error where the wrong design set was used. While not a typical error like a misspelling, this discrepancy could still hold some interest for collectors, especially those who specialize in Afghan stamps or commemorative stamp errors. However, it might not be as valuable as a more obvious printing error.

Stamps issued by Afghanistan on 1979 March 8 – the error depicted on the 1979 Afghan 14-Afghani - Women's Day stamp ("POSSTES" instead of "POSTES") could be of interest to stamp collectors who specialize in errors or Afghan stamps. Printing mistakes like misspelling words are uncommon and can introduce rarity to a stamp collection. In this case, the extra "S" at the end of "POSTES" is a clear error.

The Afghan stamps issued on 1989 February 13 featuring a Pablo Picasso painting with a misspelling ("Ambrouse Vollar" instead of "Ambroise Vollard") could be of interest to collectors who specialize in errors or art-themed stamps. The spelling mistakes of "Ambroise" as "Ambrouse" introduce an error to the stamp. This mistake adds a layer of rarity compared to correctly printed stamps.

Errors on Afghan postage stamps offer a unique lens into the country's postal history. From simple misspellings to more complex discrepancies in commemorative issues, these errors have the potential to become valuable collectibles for philatelists. The rarity of these mistakes, coupled with the intriguing stories behind them, make them particularly desirable for collectors seeking unique and historically significant items. While the value of these stamps is influenced by factors such as the nature of the error, its rarity, and market interest, they undeniably add a layer of intrigue and fascination to stamp collecting.
